Batch 1: Peace of Mind & Balanced Lifestyle (1–25)

1. Bhagavad-gita 6.6
   "For one who has conquered the mind, the mind is the best of friends; but for one who has failed to do so, his mind will remain the greatest enemy."
2. Bhagavad-gita 2.66
   "One who is not connected with the Supreme can have neither steady intelligence nor a peaceful mind, without which there is no possibility of happiness."
3. Bhagavad-gita 2.70
   "A person who is not disturbed by the incessant flow of desires—that enter like rivers into the ocean, which is ever being filled but is always still—can alone achieve peace, and not the man who strives to satisfy such desires."
4. Bhagavad-gita 2.71
   "A person who has given up all desires for sense gratification, who lives free from desires, who has given up all sense of proprietorship and is devoid of false ego—he alone can attain real peace."
5. Bhagavad-gita 6.19
   "As a lamp in a windless place does not waver, so the transcendentalist, whose mind is controlled, remains always steady in his meditation on the transcendent Self."
6. Bhagavad-gita 6.16
   "There is no possibility of one's becoming a yogi, O Arjuna, if one eats too much or eats too little, sleeps too much or does not sleep enough."
7. Bhagavad-gita 6.17
   "He who is regulated in his habits of eating, sleeping, recreation and work can mitigate all material pains by practicing the yoga system."
8. Bhagavad-gita 2.14
   "O son of Kuntī, the nonpermanent appearance of happiness and distress, and their disappearance in due course, are like the appearance and disappearance of winter and summer seasons. They arise from sense perception, O scion of Bharata, and one must learn to tolerate them without being disturbed."
9. Bhagavad-gita 18.37
   "That which at first tastes like poison but at last tastes like nectar and which awakens one to self-realization is said to be happiness in the mode of goodness."
10. Bhagavad-gita 6.35
    "Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa said: O mighty-armed son of Kuntī, it is undoubtedly very difficult to curb the restless mind, but it is possible by suitable practice and by detachment."
11. Bhagavad-gita 6.7
    "For him who has conquered the mind, the Supersoul is already reached, for he has attained tranquility. To such a man happiness and distress, heat and cold, honor and dishonor are all the same."
12. Bhagavad-gita 2.56
    "One who is not disturbed in mind even amidst the threefold miseries or elated when there is happiness, and who is free from attachment, fear and anger, is called a sage of steady mind."

13. Bhagavad-gita 2.64
    "But a person free from all attachment and aversion and able to control his senses through regulative principles of freedom can obtain the complete mercy of the Lord."
14. Bhagavad-gita 2.65
    "For one thus satisfied [in Kṛṣṇa consciousness], the threefold miseries of material existence exist no longer; in such satisfied consciousness, one's intelligence is soon well established."
15. Bhagavad-gita 5.21
    "Such a liberated person is not attracted to material sense pleasure but is always in trance, enjoying the pleasure within. In this way the self-realized person enjoys unlimited happiness, for he concentrates on the Supreme."
16. Bhagavad-gita 5.26
    "Those who are free from anger and all material desires, who are self-realized, self-disciplined and constantly endeavoring for perfection, are assured of liberation in the Supreme in the very near future."
17. Bhagavad-gita 6.5
    "One must deliver himself with the help of his mind, and not degrade himself. The mind is the friend of the conditioned soul, and his enemy as well."
18. Bhagavad-gita 6.18
    "When the yogī, by practice of yoga, disciplines his mental activities and becomes situated in transcendence—devoid of all material desires—he is said to be well-established in yoga."
19. Bhagavad-gita 6.22
    "Established thus, one is never shaken, even in the midst of greatest difficulty."
20. Bhagavad-gita 6.26
    "From wherever the mind wanders due to its flickering and unsteady nature, one must certainly withdraw it and bring it back under the control of the Self."
21. Bhagavad-gita 12.15
    "He by whom no one is put into difficulty and who is not disturbed by anyone, who is equal in happiness and distress, fear and anxiety, is very dear to Me."
22. Srila Prabhupada Lecture (Los Angeles, Jan 8, 1974)
    "You cannot stop thinking, but you can change the quality of your thinking."
23. Srila Prabhupada Lecture (New York, Dec 20, 1966)
    "Peace cannot be achieved by mechanical means; peace is a state of consciousness."
24. Srila Prabhupada Letter to Vrindavan (Aug 12, 1971)
    "Simple living and high thinking is the solution to all problems."
25. Srila Prabhupada Letter to Dr. Bigelow (March 26, 1971)
    "Krsna consciousness is not a sectarian religious cult... It is a science of the soul, a universal cultural movement for the spiritual re-education of all human society."
